

Information

To log in to the configurator you can either use your personal login with user name and password, or with your Email address.

Log in with Email address:

Press the Login button under “Log in with Email address” The first time you use this Email address, you will be asked to enter your Name and the Alo customer number. Your Alo customer number can be found on your last invoice. If you don’t have access to your invoice or if you don’t have an Alo customer number. Please contact your closest Alo account manager (Alo sales person) .

Login with username and password:

If you have a personal login with username, enter this under the text “Login with username and password” To obtain a personal login with password, please contact your closest Alo account manager (Alo sales person) .